Rezoning Request Creates Debate

by LARRY O'KELLEY
Freelance Writer

At the June 10th board meeting a request to rezoning a parcel of property became the major topic of the meeting.

As previously reported in The Huron River Weekly, a dialogue is beginning to develop in the community that has been repeated in many other communities. The dialogue has to do with land development.

The communities that have successfully dealt with the issue focused on quality development not stopping or severely restricting development. Yes, there appears to be a small minority on the board that wants to routinely deny rezoning requests and argue for severe limitations on new home building.

The dichotomy that is developing was evidenced again when Nest Developing Company submitted a request to rezone a parcel of property from agriculture to R-1A. This would allow homes to be built on one-acre parcels.

The site plan called for an 80-acre parcel to be used to construct a small man-made lake surrounded by up to 70 homes. The price range of the homes would be $275,000-$350,000. The developers advised that ten acres would be necessary for the lake and the roads.

Nest Developing Company presented the board with photos and drawings illustrating the type of homes they wish to build.

Trustee Adkins, for the benefit of the audience, asked several questions regarding the content of their proposal.

Trustee Glaab liked the idea of a small lake in the center of the development. He remarked that several recent developments had a retention pond at the back or edge of the project and it was not maintained. He also felt the lake would help in lowering the water table in the area and this might benefit neighboring land with their drainage.

Trustee McKinney appeared to be the only trustee to express opposition. He reminded the board that the matter before them was a rezoning issue or land use issue. It was not an issue of whether Nest Development had a good proposal for building. He added that once a parcel was rezoned, the owner could change the plans – but the rezoning would still remain.

To this, Nest Development proposed covenants be attached to the rezoning requests. These covenants or promises would cover the concerns raised by the board as well as the planning commis-

Rezoning

sion who denied the request for rezoning.

This suggestion of covenants quickly drew responses from Trustee McKinney, Planning Chairman Kohlstrand as well as the Township

Attorney Foley. All agreed that covenants used to rezone were considered "contract zoning" and that was illegal.

After additional discussions, the board decided to omit any mention of covenants and voted to approve the rezoning request by a vote of 4-2 with Trustees McKinney and Mason voting no.

In another, but unrelated matter, the police chief introduced two new part-time officers Bradley Reed and Scott Fouty. This was part of the board's desire to meet any new officers hired by the department.

Penrickton Center for Blind Children

Penrickton Center is a private non-profit five-day residential and day care agency serving blind, multi-disabled children ages one-12. Because no fees are ever charged to families, all financial support is raised from individuals, service clubs, corporations, and foundations.

Penrickton Center was established in 1952 by three families (Perman, Ricker, Wigginton) as a day nursery for blind preschoolers because no such program existed. Over the years Penrickton Center has changed to meet the needs in the community. Currently, we specialize in treating blind children ages one-12 with at least one additional handicap such as deafness, cerebral palsy, brain damage, developmental delay and mental retardation.

Most of our children stay with us throughout the week and all children return home to their families on weekends and holidays. Children under six participate in our day care program. In both cases an intense program of training and care is provided to help each child reach their potential. We also provide a consultation-evaluation program to serve those families who may not need our regular services.

All of the blind multi-disabled children we serve receive developmental programming; that is, programs designed to meet the individual needs of the special child. This programming includes individualized training in the areas of self care (eating, dressing, personal care), travel skills, motor skills, and language acquisition. Children in our evaluation/consultation program receive recommendations in this area by our professional staff.

To help each child achieve his or her maximum potential requires intensive and personalized involvement by our staff. Currently we have a ratio of one child care staff member for each three children. This does not include ancillary staff such as nursing, social work, program planning, occupational therapy, dance and movement therapy.

Volunteers also play an important role at Penrickton Center. We teach our volunteers how to feed, bathe and play appropriately with blind multi-disabled handicapped children. In addition, volunteers assist in outings to the zoo, parks and on picnics.

Since no fees are ever charged for our services, we continue to need support of many caring people. Penrickton Center for Blind Children is registered with the Internal Revenue Service as private non-profit charity 501 (c)(3) and with the Michigan Department of Social Services as a child caring facility.

5.c Representatives of Nest Development were present to review their proposal project and proposed site plans with the Board.

Trustee Adkins asked the price range of the homes, number of units and questioned the proposed lake.

Nest representative advised the homes would sell for $275,000.00 to $350,000.00, approximately 70 units. The project proposes a lake in the middle of the 80 acres with one acre parcels around the lake. The developer stated they will try to preserve as many trees as possible in the development.

Supervisor Glaab stated he likes the concept of the lake and that it may help to elevate the drainage/water problems in this area.

Trustee McKinney reminded the Board this request is for a rezoning and not a site plan approval. Once the property is rezoned any project that fits the requirement for an R1 (Suburban Residential) zoning can be put on the property.

Norman Kohlstrand, Chairperson of the Planning Commission was present to answer questions of the Board and advised the Board the Planning Commission recommendation to deny the rezoning was based on topographies, current drainage problems, soil types, surrounding citizens input.

5.c1 To grant the rezoning request ZC 199-02-98, Nest Development Co. for Tax Parcel #75-124-99-005-000 from AG (Agricultural) to R1 (Suburban Residential) based on the Township Planning Consultants recommendation and the covenant added to the plan that a lake will be required in this project.

C.Y.B.O.R.G.S. Play Leap Frog

The C.Y.B.O.R.G.S. enjoyed learning about the development of frogs, from tadpole to adult. They also met a mud puppy (water dog). They found this quite an unusual amphibian. The frogs were the most fun as they squirmed and leaped, they kept everyone busy for most of the hour. We would like to send a special thanks to our instructor Kim Bates and her assistant from the Grass Roots Nursery they were wonderful. Next month, we will be hosting a Cultural Picnic at Lajko Park.
